LinkedIn Top Skills

1- Statical Analysis & Data mining is Very important Skill!

Out of 14 countries, this skill spotted #1 in 7 countries, and the rest was between 2 – 5, with avg global rank #2! which is still at top 5, this shows us that analysis is becoming important day by day, and if you have this skill you will probably work at any company specially who tend to use data insight in their decisions.
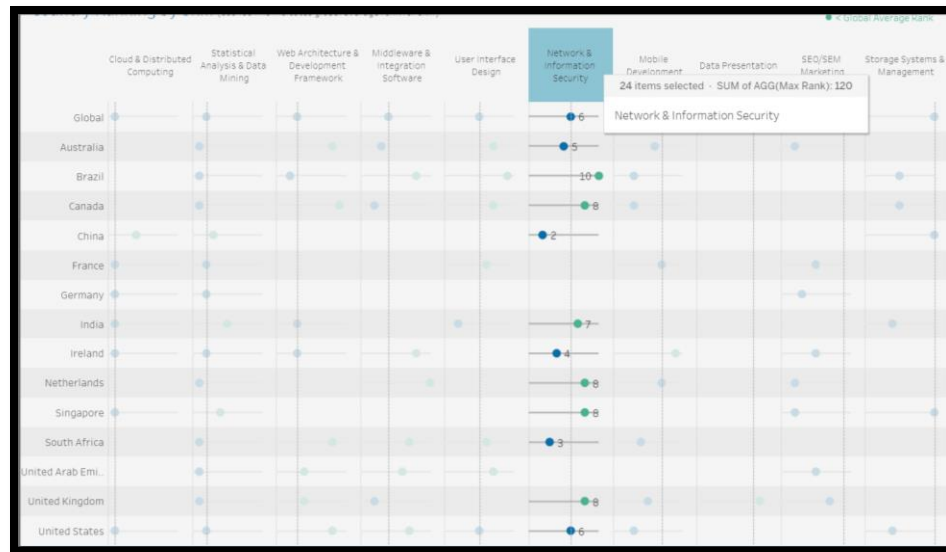

I reached this information by clicking on the name of the skill (Statical Analysis & Data mining) it highlighted the countries that spotted at top 10.

2- Network and information security is vary!

The avg global rank for this skill is #6, you can tell from the figure below that the demand for this skill is vary from country to country, it spotted #2 - #4 in 3 countries (China, Ireland, south Africa) while the rest was between #5 - #10, this means that you have to think of which country first you would work on, based on that you will know how important is your skill compared to other.

I reached to this information by clicking on the name of the skill (Network and information security) it highlighted the countries that spotted at top 10.

3- Data presentation is the new trend!

As it was not that important in the past for so many countries, the data visualization spotted in #8 globally, which indicates that it is became important along with data analysis.

I reached this information by clicking on the name of the skill (Data presentation) it highlighted the countries that spotted at top 10.